Is there additional information or feedback that you would like to share with instructor Michael Droste ?

Students

Professor is really enthusiastic about teaching, and his explanation was always clear.
However, in my impression, the contents are too much. Possibly you can reduce some contents.

Overall you were my favorite lecturer of the first year curriculum. Lectures were fun and covered a lot of material, felt they were well-paced and assignments were good, though it would have been nice to maybe have one more (maybe optional) assignment that was tailored to be the intended difficulty of core/finals. No substantive problems/complaints had a really good quarter.

One wish is to have the matlab solutions to the problem sets, just to compare our code to the solutions and see if there is a better solution.

I really enjoyed Professor Droste's class. I especially appreciated his insight into the academic world; both formally in how he related topics we learned to recent and historical academic research, as well as informally, as he relates his own personal travails in world of Academia to us. It really helped to learn a lot as people starting out on our academic research journey.

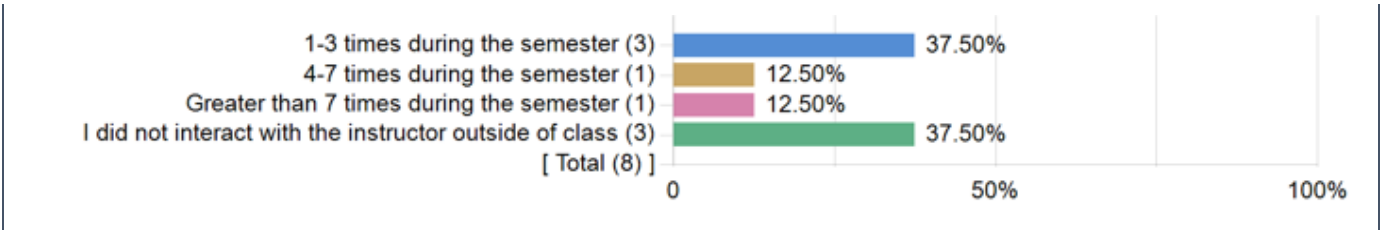

I like the rumors and anecdotes you shared during lectures, but occasionally it went a little bit too far and interrupts the usual flow of class.

The digressions were fun but sometimes they are just too much, but not really disruptive I guess

Comment

Lecture notes/slides. Both Professors were very well done/good level of detail.

The clear progression of it and how both instructors connected theories from the course to academic research, both theoretical and empirical. This really helped to bring alive how these issues motivate research questions. I found not only my understanding of macroeconomics improved, but also my understanding of how economics questions motivate research.

I discovered frameworks that I did not know would be useful for my research

Please describe the LEAST valuable aspect(s) of this course.

Comment

Unclear, not planning on going into Macro but still enjoyed the empirical coverage and I thought the class was still fun to follow even as an applied micro person. Seems all relevant for core exam and builds on first semester.

Some of the more lengthy theoretical proofs were difficult to follow and at least for me as a more applied person, seemed less relevant. I did not get much out of following these derivations or working on them very hard in problem sets, and I would rather have spent more time practicing different economic settings in problem sets and class (although I understand that this may be different for other students with different interests).
